

---

Community Water Screening Program

Community Water Screening Program An educational program serving persons in rural areas of the Columbia Basin whose primary source of drinking water comes from privately-owned wells. Individuals receive free water screening for nitrate. More information is needed here Carol to fill out this page content so it will keep visitors coming back the site. If there's not information to read and it never changes, then there's no reason for anyone to come back.